A Brief History of the Richard P. Lewis Memorial Lecture

The Richard P. Lewis Memorial Lecture was established in 2012. Dr. Lewis received a B.S. degree from Yale University in 1957 and his M.D. from the University of Oregon in 1961. He interned and served a residency in internal medicine at the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital in Boston, followed by a fellowship in cardiology at the University of Oregon and a year as a senior resident in medicine at Stanford. Commissioned a captain in the US Army Medical Corps in 1966, Dr. Lewis served a two year tour as associate chief of cardiology at the Madigan Army Hospital in Tacoma, Washington. He then returned to Stanford for a year as an instructor in medicine.

Madigan was just the beginning of his military career. He remained in the US Army reserve and ultimately reached the rank of colonel. Dr. Lewis began his career at the Ohio State University School of Medicine in 1969 as an Assistant Professor of Medicine, progressing to full Professor, with fifteen years as director of the division of cardiology and ultimately as an emeritus professor who never retired from patient care and teaching.

For nearly forty years Dr. Lewis was a devoted fellow of the American College of Cardiology. His leadership roles in the College were legion, from governor for Ohio, to trustee and president of the College in 1996-1997. All the while, his passion was education and patient care. For more than 20 years he was one of the most active members of the Editorial Board of ACCEL, the College's audio journal. Over the years he did literally hundreds of interviews in this country and around the world.

But perhaps the hallmark of Dr. Lewis' contributions to the College was his dedication to innovations in cardiovascular education. He was the founding editor of the American College of Cardiology Foundation's Adult Clinical Cardiology Self-Assessment Program (ACCSAP) and editor of the seventh edition of ACCSAP at the time of his death. He was a member of the College's Lifelong Learning Committee, the CardioSmart Advisory Board, the ACCIS Editorial Board and a variety of other committees. For many years he chaired the SAP Editorial Board and was instrumental in expanding ACC educational products into international markets.

Dr. Lewis has been described as an icon of quality care and clinical excellence throughout his remarkable cardiovascular career. He was viewed as a mentor, a trusted leader and a friend by all who knew him. Although Dr. Lewis was recognized internationally as a distinguished academic cardiologist and educator, he believed, and practiced throughout his career, that for a doctor, there is no mission more sacred than giving care and comfort to every patient.

About the 2013 Richard P. Lewis Memorial Guest Lecturer

Rick A. Nishimura, MD, MACC, FACP

Dr. Nishimura is currently a consultant in cardiovascular diseases at Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minnesota. He is the Judd and Mary Morris Leighton Professor of Cardiovascular Diseases and Professor of Medicine at the Mayo Clinic College of Medicine. He did his undergraduate at Knox College in Illinois where he graduated Phi Beta Kappa and Magna cum Laude. He then went to Rush Medical School where he graduated AOA. He did his internal medicine residency and cardiovascular fellowship at the Mayo Graduate School of Medicine and joined the staff of Mayo Clinic in 1983. He is a Fellow of the American College of Cardiology, Fellow of the American Heart Association and Master of the American College of Physicians.

Dr. Nishimura's research areas have involved the field of cardiovascular hemodynamics. His major work has been in the use of simultaneous Doppler and high fidelity catheterization correlations to assess intracardiac pressures and diastolic function of the heart. He has over 270 peer-reviewed manuscripts and over 60 book chapters in this field.

He has an active clinical practice with a particular interest in hypertrophic cardiomyopathy, valvular heart disease and pericardial disease. He continues to work in the catheterization laboratory concentrating mainly on complex hemodynamic cases as well as structural heart disease interventions. He has received the Henry Plummer Award for Outstanding Clinician in the Department of Medicine and the Distinguished Clinician Award for the Mayo Foundation.

Dr. Nishimura has been active in the national cardiology societies. He was the chair of education for the American College of Cardiology for 10 years and was on the Board of Trustees for the ACC. He currently serves as chair of the ACC/AHA valvular heart disease guideline committee and has been on the ACC/AHA parent guideline committee. He now chairs the ACC Life Long Learning Committee and was the co-director of the ACC.12 Annual Scientific Sessions.

From the education standpoint, Dr. Nishimura has always been involved with teaching at the fellowship, residency and medical school levels. He has won the Mayo Graduate School Teacher of the Year Award seven times and was inducted into the "Hall of Fame." He has been awarded the Cardiovascular Teacher of the Year Award for the past 24 consecutive years and was the recipient of the "Golden Apple" teaching award for the Mayo Medical School. He has directed several ACC programs, runs the Continuous Professional Development Programs for the ACC and is the co-director of the Mayo Clinic Cardiovascular Board Review Program. He has received the ACC Master Teacher Award, the American Heart Association Laennec Award, as well as the Mayo Clinic Distinguished Educator Award.

CALL FOR POSTERS Fellows-in-Training!

Visit <http://ohioaccmeetings.org/am/poster/> for submission details.

All current Ohio fellows in an Ohio cardiology training program are invited to present their research (past or present) during the poster session, scheduled for Saturday, October 5. Eligible posters may present recent data, case study* or information that has been presented previously at a local or national meeting. The abstracts will be judged in advance to select the top two abstracts for oral presentation. The rest of the accepted abstracts will be presented as posters and judged at the poster presentation on Saturday, October 5. There are cash prizes!

Visit <http://ohioaccmeetings.org/am/poster/>

*If you submit a case study:

1. Case reports should be of a rare, unusual, or unexpected finding in a patient;
2. The diagnosis should be known or the workup as complete as possible (all evidence as to the diagnosis should be included);
3. There should be a brief review of the literature including numbers of patients with similar findings/outcomes, risk factors, how it has been evaluated/treated, and outcomes where known;
4. The case should include as much follow-up as is available;
5. Pathology slides and supporting evidence should be included.

GENERAL INFORMATION

Statement of Need

Cardiovascular disease is the leading health care problem throughout the world. In the United States alone, an estimated 70 million people have been diagnosed with one or more forms of cardiovascular disease (CV), and over 910,000 Americans die from CV disease each year. The cardiac care team is increasingly asked to develop systems of care, the methods for which are not necessarily part of the traditional medical training. We are asked to do this better, faster, more efficiently and at a lower cost.

Overall Goal

The overall goal of this activity is to increase learner competence by discovering strategies to anticipate research-driven changes in practice, to enhance professional growth, and to demonstrate efficacy in team based patient care practice as new clinical approaches and technologies change.

Learner Objectives

Upon completion of this program, participants should be able to:

- Address the treatment of venous thromboembolism.
- Address common problems unique to adult patients with congenital heart disease that caregivers will see in practice.
- Recognize the impact of Health Care Reform legislation on the practice of cardiology.
- Consider diagnostic tools along with medical, pharmacological and surgical strategies in the treatment of the patient with pericardial disease.
- Recognize that certain diabetic drugs may increase adverse outcomes in the cardiac patient.
- Assess PCI outcomes performed in settings without cardiac surgery.

Target Audience

Adult Cardiologists, Pediatric Cardiologists, Cardiothoracic Surgeons, Cardiology Fellows-in-Training, Nurses, Nurse Practitioners, Clinical Nurse Specialists, Physician Assistants, Pharmacists

ACCF Disclosure & COI Policy Statement

ACCF/Chapter committee members, faculty, staff and other individuals who are in a position to control the content of this activity are required to disclose all real or apparent conflicts of interest. All relevant potential conflicts of interest that are identified are thoroughly vetted through a process that includes course directors and appropriate peer review by education committee chairs/members, for fair balance, scientific objectivity and validity, patient care and safety recommendations. Full disclosure will be published in the syllabus.

Accreditation & Designation

Physicians

This activity has been planned and implemented in accordance with the Essential Areas and policies of the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education through the joint sponsorship of the American College of Cardiology Foundation and the Ohio Chapter of the American College of Cardiology. The American College of Cardiology Foundation is accredited by the ACCME to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

The ACCF designates this live educational activity for a maximum of 5.5 AMA PRA Category 1 Credit(s)™. Physicians should only claim credits commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.

Nurses

American College of Cardiology Foundation is accredited as a provider of continuing nursing education by the American Nurses Credentialing Center's Commission on Accreditation.

The ACCF designates this educational activity for a maximum of 5.5 continuing education hours. Requirement for successful completion is attendance at the program in its entirety and completing the evaluation tool.

While offering CME and CNE credits noted above, this program is not intended to provide extensive training or certification in the field.

Acknowledgment

At the time of printing, a complete listing of industry supporters was not available. Appropriate acknowledgment will be made upon confirmation of support and at the time of the program.
