A Brief History of the Carl J. Wiggers Memorial Lecture

The Carl J. Wiggers Memorial Lecture was established in 1963, the year of Dr. Wiggers' death. He retired in 1953 as Chairman of the Department of Physiology at Western Reserve University. He was President of the American Physiological Society and wrote almost 400 scientific papers and eight textbooks. He founded the journal Circulation Research in 1952. His legacy, however, is that he trained many of the world's cardiovascular leaders. Carl Wiggers personally trained 38 department heads and/or research directors.

About the 2016 Carl J. Wiggers Memorial Guest Lecturer

Christine E. Seidman, MD

Christine Seidman, MD is the Thomas W. Smith Professor of Medicine and Genetics at Harvard Medical School and Brigham and Women's Hospital and an Investigator of the Howard Hughes Medical Institute. She was an undergraduate at Harvard College and received a M.D. from George Washington University School of Medicine. After clinical training in Internal Medicine at John Hopkins Hospital she received subspecialty training in cardiology at the Massachusetts General Hospital. Dr. Seidman is a faculty member of Brigham and Women's Hospital, where she serves as Director of the Brigham Research Institute. She is the founding Director of the BWH Cardiovascular Genetics Center.

Dr. Seidman's laboratory uses genomic strategies to define causes of human cardiovascular disease, including congenital heart malformations and cardiomyopathies. By exploiting model systems to identify pathways impacted by mutations, these studies have enabled gene-based diagnostics and novel strategies to limit the deleterious consequences of human mutations. Dr. Seidman also leads multi-institution consortium that assess rare and common variants involved in cardiovascular phenotypes and that explore the clinical utility of genomic variation in early diagnosis and prevention of cardiovascular disease.

The recipient of many honors, Dr. Seidman is a Distinguished Scientist of the American Heart Association, Fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, and member of the Institutes of Medicine and the National Academy of Sciences.

Statement of Need

Cardiovascular disease is the leading health care problem throughout the world. In the United States alone, an estimated 70 million people have been diagnosed with one or more forms of cardiovascular disease (CV), and over 910,000 Americans die from CV disease each year. The cardiac care team is increasingly asked to develop systems of care, the methods for which are not necessarily part of the traditional medical training. We are asked to do this better, faster, more efficiently and at a lower cost.

Overall Goal

The overall goal of this activity is to increase learner competence by discovering strategies to anticipate research-driven changes in practice, to enhance professional growth, and to demonstrate efficacy in team based patient care practice as new clinical approaches and technologies change. The Ohio Chapter-ACC Spring Summit will include education that provides needs-based learning covering a thorough overview of CV team based care, coronary intervention, cardiology oncology, anticoagulation and cardiomyopathy.

Learner Objectives

Upon completion of this program, participants should be able to:

- Review ways that cardiovascular team-based care enables the provision of care that is of higher quality and results in greater patient and provider satisfaction than any single team member can provide independently.
- Discuss appropriate interventional therapies for the cardiovascular patient.
- Identify and determine the appropriate cardiovascular treatment and management options for patients undergoing treatment for cancer.
- Maximize the net clinical benefit of antithrombotic therapy in preventing stroke in the setting of atrial fibrillation.
- Analyze how genetics impacts the cardiomyopathy patient.

Target Audience

Adult Cardiologists, Pediatric Cardiologists, Cardiothoracic Surgeons, Cardiology Fellows-in-Training, Internal Medicine Physicians, Private Practice Physicians, Nurses, Nurse Practitioners, Clinical Nurse Specialists, Physician Assistants, Pharmacists
