A Brief History of the Carl J. Wiggers Memorial Lecture

The Carl J. Wiggers Memorial Lecture was established in 1963, the year of Dr. Wiggers' death. He retired in 1953 as Chairman of the Department of Physiology at Western Reserve University. He was President of the American Physiological Society and wrote almost 400 scientific papers and eight textbooks. He founded the journal Circulation Research in 1952. His legacy, however, is that he trained many of the world's cardiovascular leaders. Carl Wiggers personally trained 38 department heads and/or research directors.

About the 2017 Carl J. Wiggers Memorial Guest Lecturer

Ted Feldman, MD, FACC

Dr. Feldman received his undergraduate and medical training at Indiana University, completing residency as Chief Resident at Rush-Presbyterian-St. Luke's Medical Center, Chicago, Illinois. After finishing his Cardiology Fellowship at the University of Chicago, he remained there as Professor of Medicine and Director of the Cardiac Catheterization Laboratory. He currently practices at Evanston Hospital, where he is Director of the Cardiac Catheterization Laboratory, holds the Walgreen Chair in Interventional Cardiology, and is Professor of Clinical Medicine at University of Chicago Medical School.

Dr. Feldman has authored over 600 manuscripts, chapters, abstracts, and editorials and edited or co-edited several books. He is a Percutaneous Coronary Intervention Guideline co-author and has served on the American Board of Internal Medicine Interventional Cardiology test writing committee. Chicago Magazine has repeatedly named him among Chicago's Top Doctors. Dr. Feldman is a past-President of the Society of Cardiovascular Angiography & Interventions, and chaired the Annual Scientific Sessions of the Society, as well as the American College of Cardiology Annual Meeting Interventional Sessions.

He is an active interventional practitioner and performs hundreds of catheter procedures every year. He has been the national principal investigator of the EVEREST I and II MitraClip trials, REPRIZE III TAVR trial, and CorVia REDUCE LAP trial. He participates in numerous clinical investigations, with major research interests that include non-surgical, percutaneous repair and replacement of the mitral valve, catheter based aortic valve replacement, device closure for paravalvular leak and congenital heart disease, left atrial appendage closure, and development of novel catheter devices.

Statement of Need

Cardiovascular care is rapidly evolving with new technologies. Healthcare providers need periodic educational updates on emerging clinical trials and advances in patient management. They need to learn from case scenarios applicable to daily practice and gain knowledge of changes to practice guidelines, so they can apply evidence-based research to their patient management decisions.

Overall Goal

The overall goal of this activity is to increase learner competence by discovering strategies to anticipate research-driven changes in practice, to enhance professional growth, and to demonstrate efficacy in team based patient care practice as new clinical approaches and technologies change.

Learner Objectives

Upon completion of this program, participants should be able to:

- Describe the efficacy of left atrial occlusion devices and appropriately refer atrial fibrillation patients for this treatment option.
- Employ latest advancements in the management of patients with pulmonary arterial hypertension.
- Apply the latest evidence based guidelines to the evaluation, medical management and surgical treatment of patients with endocarditis.
- Review the appropriate selection and use of cardiac imaging in patients with cardiac disease.
- Discuss the foundation of surgical treatments for mitral regurgitation, the outcomes from catheter based mitral repair and replacement, and the indications for transcatheter aortic valve replacement.

Target Audience

Adult Cardiologists, Pediatric Cardiologists, Cardiothoracic Surgeons, Cardiology Fellows-in-Training, Internal Medicine Physicians, Private Practice Physicians, Nurses, Nurse Practitioners, Clinical Nurse Specialists, Physician Assistants, Pharmacists

Disclosure Policy

As a provider accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education (ACCME) and the American Nurses Credentialing Center (ANCC), the American College of Cardiology Foundation (ACCF) must ensure balance, independence, objectivity and scientific rigor in all of their directly provided or jointly provided/co-provided educational activities. Planners, presenters, and other contributors, in a position to control the content are required to disclose to the audience all relevant financial relationships he/she and/or his/her spouse or domestic partner may have, occurring within the past 12 months, with any entity producing, marketing, re-selling, or distributing health care goods or services consumed by, or used on, patients. When an unlabeled use of a commercial product or an investigational use not yet approved for any purpose is discussed during an educational activity, the contributor should disclose that the product is not labeled for the use under discussion or that the product is still investigational.

ACCF is committed to providing its learners with high-quality activities and materials that promote improvements and quality in health care and not a specific proprietary business or commercial interest. The intent of this disclosure is not to prevent participation in educational activities by persons with a financial or other relationship, but rather to provide learners with information on which they can make their own determination whether financial interests or relationships may influence the education activity.

ACCF assesses conflicts of interest (COI) with its faculty, planners, managers, staff and other individuals who are in a position to control the content of CME/CNE activities. All relevant potential conflicts of interest that are identified are thoroughly vetted through a process that includes course directors and appropriate peer review by education committee chairs/members, for fair balance, scientific objectivity and validity, and patient care and safety recommendations.
