

Elisa Bradley, MD, FACC

Dr. Bradley is an Associate Professor of Medicine at The Ohio State University. She is board certified in Adult Cardiology and Adult Congenital Heart Disease, and her clinical interests are in the care of ACHD patients, pulmonary arterial hypertension and CVD in pregnancy. Her research focus is two-fold, studying the mechanisms of late CVD in the ACHD population, and in financial education as it applies to provider wellness. She is a member of the American Heart Association's Fellows-In-Training Program Director Subcommittee, and the Chair of the upcoming writing group focused on wellness in FITs pursuing academic careers.